Share your Story

You’re invited to share why you enrolled in ACTIV-6 and the importance of clinical research studies in the time of COVID. Your story may encourage others to participate in studies, and can serve as a reminder to researchers on the importance of doing research that matters to all people.

To gather stories, the ACTIV-6 study team has partnered with Story Booth at the University of Pittsburgh. Story Booth’s mission is to make patients’ voices central to health research. Your name or image will not be shared without your permission. A Story Booth team member will discuss any concerns or questions you may have about sharing your story or working with the Story Booth team before scheduling a recording session.

Your Story

1. Email mystory@pitt.edu and let them know you’re interested in sharing your ACTIV-6 story.
2. Within 2 business days, a team member will contact you to schedule a 1-hour recording session.
3. Record your story over the phone with a member of the Story Booth team.

Preparing your Story

Below are a list of suggested prompts you can review to prepare for your recording. You are welcome to share more or less.

1. What is your personal story about COVID-19?
2. How did you learn about the ACTIV-6 study?
3. Why did you join this study?
4. What have you learned from being part of this study?
5. Have you participated in other clinical research studies?
6. What would you say to others who are considering joining this study or another clinical research study?
